

thoughtful gift
supporting emotional love

relieving burden
making sound decisions

Today, more and more people are choosing to plan their funerals in advance. We've found our families think it makes sense for three basic reasons:

It Just Makes Sense...

You can relieve an emotional burden from those you love. By making sound decisions in advance, without stress, you can free your loved ones from this responsibility, allowing them to concentrate on supporting each other at a very emotional time.

You can express your own wishes. Often families are confused about the choices they will need to make. They may agonize over what you would have wanted. Selecting your options in advance removes any doubt and helps to make the worst day of your loved ones' lives just a little easier. If you wish, you can even revise your plans later.

You can relieve the financial burden from those you love. If you also choose to take care of funding your funeral in advance, we have plans that will ensure your survivors will never pay additional funds for the services and merchandise you selected*.

Recording your wishes can provide you with an amazing sense of relief. You can enjoy peace of mind knowing that you have not left these decisions for others to face.

We offer a variety of Advance Funeral Planning programs that allow you to express your own wishes while relieving the emotional and financial burden from your survivors.
